“IF YOU SEE THE DONKEY ...”

To the (O.T.) laws which expressed broad moral principles, God added many civil and ceremonial laws which dealt with specific circumstances of human interaction and relationships.

- We do not always know _____ to _____ a moral standard to a particular situation.
- We do not always _____ to _____ a moral imperative even when we do understand it.
- We must sometimes _____ the behavior of _____, and specific laws help us in the dance between punishment and mercy.

General Laws

Specific Laws

Principle	_____
Preparation	_____
Prevention	_____

(Exodus 23:4-5) a) Help needed b) I can help but ...

1. Opportunity to _____ ... make situation worse for enemy
2. Opportunity to _____ ... refuse to get involved
3. Opportunity to _____ ... moving toward healing/restoration

*God’s nature compels us to overcome evil with good (Lk 6:27-36, Rom 12:17-21)

ELEPHANT IN THE ROOM ... my “will”

Exodus 23:5 could be translated “... and you WANT to REFRAIN from helping it/him”

i.e. (me) “Don’t want to help!” (God) “HELP ANYWAY!”

- *God’s laws (general and specific) provide both _____ and _____
1. I _____ do things I don’t want to do
 2. I _____ do things I don’t want to do

My own will, desire, feelings and emotions are not the “bottom line” of human behavior. In fact, they are often a great bastion of selfishness, laziness, and stubbornness ... the place of sin. Seldom do I need _____. Often do I need _____ and _____.

- (I John 5:3-4) * I love God by obeying God’s commands
- *God’s commands are not burdensome
 - *They give me victory which overcomes the world
 - *This victory comes through _____ rather than _____
