EARLY SITUATION ... HEAVENLY MOTIVATION

(Matthew 5-7)

Righteousness of Rules (5:20)

The “scribes and Pharisees” were pious and strict. They worshipped, fasted, tithed, and prayed with regularity and zeal. They were obsessive, compulsive, religious freaks. YET, said Jesus, they had not even entered into God’s kingdom.

FURTHERMORE, ___ need to catch something _____ missed, if ___ would enter God’s kingdom. Whoa! This is serious and sobering and calls for me to truly _____ my life.

Righteousness of the Kingdom _____ that weeps over the _____ Measured by God’s standard, my performance is poor. Unacceptable. It is only when I _____ for his nature and righteousness and _____ my pride that I enter his kingdom and experience his life.

_____ that rise above the _____

It is impossible to be a citizen of God’s kingdom while living no differently than those in allegiance to Satan’s kingdom. _____ and _____ are _____.

_____ that goes beyond the _____ Laws are never the limit of performance. They are simply the _____ _____ . Kingdom living (love) sees the rule as a _____ point rather than a _____ place.

_____ that moves past the _____ Living in God’s kingdom causes my communion with him to be authentic and sincere and personal and real. He is my King. _____ forms and norms, applause and approval is _____.

_____ that reaches beyond the _____

Though living on the earth, my passion and motivation is God’s kingdom, both present and future. Therefore, pursuit of earthly resources and rewards is _____ my _____.

_____ that sees beneath the _____

Two houses may be identical except for their foundations, yet that one _____ is _____. Obedience to God is the foundation of kingdom living.
