TRUSTING

Sacred Surrender MARRIAGE

Scripture: MALACHI 2:10-17

Spiritual – Judah has broken her covenant and married another god [idol worship] (10-12)

Social – same careless/carefree attitude toward individual marriage covenants (13-15)

Response: I hate the violation of good faith or the betrayal of trust (16)

I am sick of being portrayed as “not caring” about these things (17)

The POWER of Promise. The marriage vow provides _____ and _____. It causes all issues to fall into two categories... either _____ or _____ of that view.

This actually provides great simplicity and freedom for life because many decisions can simply be referred to THAT DECISION and the right answer is quickly apparent.

The COMMITMENT of Covenant. The marriage vow must be thoroughly _____ and _____. While God has designed marriage as beneficial (Gen. 2:18), he also recognizes singleness as “good” (1 Cor. 7:1-2). If you choose to make this promise, you must “lay it all on the line,” willing to _____ and _____ completely. To “guard yourself in spirit” (2:15) means that you refuse to accept anything less than this ideal; you will not allow yourself to ignore this standard.

When you trust a promise, you will either be ripped off or rewarded. This is the _____ and _____ of trust. Our natural instinct is to resist trust. We do not wish to make ourselves vulnerable. Yet we cannot have _____ if we withhold our heart. No partnership works without mutual trust. When trust has been broken, it can be _____ and _____! Scripture says REPENT/RETURN to those things (actions/attitudes) that brought you together (Rev. 2:3-5)

HOW ABOUT TRUSTING GOD?

1. Trust his _____ that “unequal” marriage is not his plan (11 Cor. 6:14-16).
2. Trust his _____ as you pray and search for marriage (Prov. 3:5-6)
3. Trust him when you feel your companion is _____ (1 Peter 3:5)
4. Trust his _____ even when you cannot understand his plan (Mal. 2:1)
